Resort Bar Bill Sees New Life

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today revived the resort bar bill it had soundly defeated Monday.

Sponsors immediately put it back on the calendar and promised not to bring it up again until amendments had been drawn to meet major objections.

The vote today to reconsider the bill was 89-67. The vote killing it Monday was 67-86.

As it stands now the bill would permit sale of liquor by the drink at a resort having more than 40 housing units, having adjacent recreation facilities and operating a restaurant that produces 60 per cent or more of its revenue.

It started out applying only to resorts of more than 80 rooms.

Opponents said it would be applicable to only eight or 10 plush resorts in the state. So the room count was lowered.

Still the foes argued. They said it would discriminate against the fine restaurant that didn't also have resort lodgings.

Today, Rep. Thomas D. Graham, D-Jefferson City, who had opposed the bill all the way, called it "not an ordinary local option liquor bill but a local option bill for the rich."

Others opposed reconsidering a once defeated bill and thereby jeopardizing some more important legislation on the crowded calendar.

Sedalians Welcome New Firm

Sedalia today officially welcomed a branch of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. to this area at a noon luncheon at Holiday Inn.

The welcome followed an announcement Wednesday that the firm will build a multi-million dollar plant west of Sedalia to make electrical conductor, cable and industrial wire. The Aluminum Division of the firm will construct the plant.

Attending the meeting and luncheon Thursday were City and County officials, members of the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of local industrial concerns and members of the local news media.

Bill Hall, Director of Industrial Development for Sedalia, opened the remarks following the luncheon with the introduction of Russell Pendergast, Public Relations representative for the Aluminum Division, Henry Lamm, Presiding Judge Pettis County Court, Charles Frederickson, plant manager, Mayor Ralph Walker of Sedalia, Robert Gardner, local attorney for the firm, and Mike Niles, legal counsel for the firm.

The mayor remarked that he was pleased to have had the opportunity to make the announcement to some 550 people at the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development at Jefferson City Thursday night. He welcomed the firm and pledged his and the city's support to the new industry in any way possible.

The mayor added that Sedalia

UAW Wage 'Package' Proposed

DETROIT (AP) — At least one United Auto Workers faction is demanding a wage and fringe benefits gain of 30 per cent over the next three years as part of the union's 1967 contract goals.

The 30 per cent "package" was proposed in leaflets handed 3,000 union delegates meeting today. The leaflets outlined a four-point program and bore the names of 10 local union presidents and at least one member each from eight other locals.

There was little doubt that delegates would shunt aside the four-point program as such, in favor of a broader more flexible approach proposed by UAW President Walter P. Reuther who says any new contract must carry a guaranteed annual income.

The four-point program proposes optional retirement at full pension after 30 years service, regardless of age; company-paid group auto insurance; a 35- or 37½-hour work week, with whatever money is left from 30 per cent going into wage increases.

Robert Weissman, president of a 3,600-member local at Twinsburg, Ohio, calculated the four-point program which he supports should provide a wage increase of at least 5 per cent a year, after the other three demands are met.

The UAW's year-old independent parts and supplier council, representing workers in supplier plants, appealed to negotiators to pay special attention to job security.

The council, representing some 350,000 UAW members, also said it wants applied to independent parts makers the same provisions won in all new contracts with the automotive big four — General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and American Motors.

The parts workers called for a provision in new contracts with the automakers that would permit UAW members to refuse to use parts manufactured in non-union shops.

They also are asking for a so-called portable pension plan, under which a worker could carry pension credits from one employer to another, and a common expiration date for all UAW contracts with parts companies.

World Leaders Gather

West German Capital Site Of Honors To Dead Leader

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's capital beside the Rhine becomes the temporary capital of the Western world next week when President Johnson and other government leaders assemble for the funeral of Konrad Adenauer.

French President Charles de Gaulle, Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other top men of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will also attend the state services Tuesday in Cologne's Roman Catholic Cathedral for the 91-year-old ex-chancellor who rebuilt West Germany from the depths of wartime defeat.

It will be the largest gathering of Eastern government heads since the funeral for President John F. Kennedy in November 1963.

The White House announced that Johnson would fly to Germany for the funeral made no mention of the President extending his trip to other European areas. The general feeling in Washington was that this was unlikely.

It will be Johnson's first visit to Europe since he became President, and there was speculation in Bonn that the gathering of Western leaders would give the U.S. President the opportunity for talks with West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and De Gaulle on major issues between their governments and Washington.

Toll Road Bill Before House Again

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House, under pressure from all sides, tried today for the third time to pass the toll road bill that has been recommended strongly by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Tuesday, the House argued over the bill for three hours, making some substantial changes the administration did not approve.

Pressure came Tuesday night and on Wednesday the House tried again with a hard core of Hearnes followers leading the fight to take off the restrictive amendments.

One would limit the amount of state highway user money that could be used to bail out the toll road authority if tolls the first few years were not enough to meet revenue and interest and principal payments.

Offered by Rep. James I. Spainhower, D-Marshall, it would limit state highway money to 3 per cent of the year's revenue. It was approved Tuesday by a safe 86-67 vote.

But after the Tuesday night recruiting — some members called it arm-twisting — the opposition forces were in control and the limit was taken off.

Spainhower said he thought Hearnes was making a good record but he couldn't go along with him on all things. He suggested a 5 per cent limit as a last-ditch alternative but that was defeated 70-83.

During the Wednesday debate of more than eight hours — with no recess, except a short one late in the afternoon while the voting machine was repaired — there was half a dozen amendments adopted.

But the belief in Washington was that a state funeral was not a suitable occasion for such discussions and that Johnson's contacts with the foreign leaders would be of a more casual nature, such as those he had in Washington with the statesmen who attended Kennedy's funeral.

After the state funeral, Adenauer will be buried at a private family service in the Rhodendorf village cemetery in the Rhine River Hills not far from his home where he died in his sleep Wednesday.

In the wooded plot are the graves of his parents, an uncle, his two wives and a son who died when he was five days old. Adorning the simple graves are blue and yellow pansies and red, white and yellow primroses.

Adenauer had planted roses, his favorite flower, but they did not flourish under the trees.

Rex Whitton Honored By High Award

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rex M. Whitton, former chief of Missouri highways who recently retired as Federal Highway Administrator, today was named to receive the Distinguished Service Award of the General Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons.

John W. Alverson of 7335 Zephyr Place) St. Louis, grand high priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons in Missouri, said the award would be presented Tuesday during the fraternity's 121st annual convocation in St. Louis.

Whitton, 68, went to work for the Missouri Highway Department in 1920 after he was graduated from the University of Missouri. He became chief engineer in 1951 and served until he was appointed to the federal post by the late President Kennedy in 1961. He now is associated with a Kansas City firm of consulting engineers and makes his home in Independence, Mo.

Alverson said "Companion Whitton's career in public service of nearly 50 years represents the highest ideals of American citizenship and the Masonic fraternity. We are delighted to bestow this award on a native Missourian on behalf of the nearly 800,000 Royal Arch Masons throughout the world."

Whitton entered the Masonic fraternity at Grandview Lodge No. 618 and "was lectured in the degrees by Harry Truman."

He became a Royal Arch Mason in Jefferson City in 1922. Other recipients of the award have included Richard H. Amberg, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and former railroad official Russell L. Dearmont.

Surveyor Returns Blurred Picture Of Moon Surface

Lunar Crater Nestles Third Unmanned Probe

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3's first glare-blurred pictures hint it may be resting in a lunar crater after a gentle touchdown in an area astronauts someday may explore.

While the three-legged craft kept its moon-scratching claw retracted, spacecraft controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said photographs radioed during 10 hours after the landing Wednesday showed less detail than those from Surveyor 1 last June. But they theorized this was due to sunlight reflected into the camera.

A spokesman said the horizon around the vehicle was about five degrees higher than it would be if Surveyor 3 had landed on a flat plain.

Ministers Support US Bomb Policy

SEATO Group Is Behind Idea Reds Must Scale Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The SEATO Foreign Ministers Council today supported the U.S. refusal to end the bombing of North Vietnam unless there is also a scaling down of military action by the Communist side in the Vietnamese war.

A communique issued by the council, concluding its 12th annual meeting, declared that "reciprocity is an essential element of any acceptable proposal for reduction in the fighting."

The seven-nation group — making up SEATO — the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization — France boycotted the conference — also issued a new warning against Communist dangers in the general area of Southeast Asia, saying:

"Communist aggression, both overt and by subversion, infiltration and terrorism, accompanied by vicious propaganda, remains a major threat to the peace and security of the area."

In apparent endorsement of arguments used here by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and some other members, the communique also declared that the outcome of the war in Vietnam will have "profound effects, not only in Asia, but throughout the world."

"It was therefore of the utmost importance," the communique said, "that these aggressive should not succeed."

At NIB Seminar

Hearnes Asks Cooperation At All Government Levels

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri called today for "a new partnership between local, state and federal governments."

The Democratic Governor, a frequent critic of federal programs preempting state power, endorsed both federal-state tax sharing and state and local government tax sharing.

Hearnes made the plea in a speech prepared for a National Industrial Board seminar.

He said he favored a tax sharing plan like the one proposed by Walter Heller, now pending in Congress. He said it would allow the states to administer federal programs under broad guidelines — "not loaded with penalties and narrow restrictions which threaten us with penalties unless we accept the latest provision of a program to which we are already committed."

"I am pleased to see President Johnson take positive action in this direction through the new comprehensive health program. This program substitutes the block grant approach instead of categorical grants, and I think it is in a new awareness that he wishes to work with the states more closely than the federal government has done in the past."

Hearnes said the states cannot be destroyed except through revolution and therefore "we must work through our existing Diameter of the crater and the height of its rim were not known.

First operation of a scoop designed to extend from the spacecraft and dig in the lunar soil was scheduled for late tonight or early Friday. The shovel, on the end of a five-foot arm, can dig as deep as 18 inches, pick up small rocks, or hammer hard enough to break a brick.

The amount of power needed to move the shovel through the soil is expected to indicate if the surface is strong enough to support manned landing craft. Pictures taken after each of its jerky movements should show whether the soil is sandy or gravelly.

Clearer of the photographs taken in the first three attempts showed irregular wrinkles — apparently part of a crater wall — between the 620-pound craft and the horizon.

Count 126 Dead From Plane Crash

Swiss Airliner Strikes Hillock In Thunderstorm

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Rescuers collected 126 burned, broken bodies today on the slopes of a hillock where a chartered Swiss airliner crashed during a thunderstorm. The airline said two of four survivors died in a hospital, bringing the total dead to 128.

In one of the worst crashes in aviation history, the four-engine turboprop Bristol Britannia airliner crashed near Nicosia during the night as it attempted to land. There were reports the plane had been hit by lightning.

Most of the dead were German and Swiss tourists returning from a trip to the Far East. The plane's crew included four Britons, all killed.

"This is the most terrible sight I've ever seen," said one of the first persons on the scene. "There are bodies all over the place, some of them in pieces."

The survivors were in the plane's tail section, the only part which remained somewhat intact.

"We kept looking but all we could find apart from those lucky few in the tail were dead people," the rescuer said.

Greek and Cypriot policemen and soldiers, British airmen and U.N. Peace Force members worked in a downpour under spotlights beamed down by hovering U.N. helicopters.

The plane was flying from Bombay, India, to Cairo, Egypt, but was diverted to Nicosia because of bad weather.

The owner, Globeair of Switzerland, said it heard from the air control tower in Nicosia that the plane was struck by lightning and burst into flames.

Evidence at the scene indicated the plane hit a bump in the ground, then bounced a few hundred yards into the slope of a hillock less than 100 feet high.

Haiphong Electric Plant Hit

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy jets bombed an electric plant inside Haiphong and another power station just east of the port city today. Hanoi denounced the raids, the first so close to Haiphong's heart, as "a new, extremely serious step of war escalation."

The target within Haiphong was a plant serving a cement factory which a U.S. spokesman said was 1.1 miles northwest of the city's commercial center. He said it was separated from the town proper by a canal or stream.

The other, believed to produce much of the electricity for the massive port which funnels sea-borne supplies into the North Vietnamese war effort, was on the Cau Cam River 2.1 miles from the commercial center.

Fliers from the 7th Fleet carriers Kitty Hawk and Ticonderoga carried out two attacks on the two power plants. The first raid struck just before noon and the second in midafternoon.

Pilots returning after dark from reconnaissance missions reported: "There are no lights tonight in Haiphong or Hong Gai."

Hong Gai is an area east of Haiphong.

The closest previously reported raid to Haiphong came last Aug. 2 when Navy pilots struck a petroleum products storage area two miles northwest of the city.

Strike pilots said today's missions were "tremendously successful." The initial damage estimate from pilots — after they had studied photos of the raids — was that 80 per cent of the two targets had been destroyed or damaged.

Officers said there was some damage to aircraft from surface to air missiles or antiaircraft fire, but no planes were lost. Hanoi had declared five were shot down.

North Vietnam's Communist Vietnam news agency broadcast a declaration that Haiphong itself was hit.

Jaycee TV Auction 'Most Successful'

The Sedalia Jaycees said today that the annual TV benefit auction has gone over the $3,000 mark in net proceeds with some monies still out.

Over 40 Jaycees and their wives, the staff of the Children's Therapy Center and KMOS-TV, worked on the auction until 4:30 a.m. Over 300 items of merchandise were donated by the Sedalia merchants as well as trips to the Ozarks and Kansas City.

The Sedalia Jaycees wish to express their appreciation to the Sedalia merchants, to the news media, to the public for their participation, and to all others who supported the auction. The 11th annual auction was the most successful ever held in Sedalia.

Vietnamese Continue To Ignore Advice From U. S.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese leaders have ignored American advice so often over the years that U.S. officials in Saigon have created a sort of parallel government of their own to cushion themselves against the frustration.

"We used to expect that for every dollar of American aid that South Vietnam consumed, it would also consume a dollar's worth of advice," a senior American official said. "Now the consumption of advice has diminished to a fraction of a cent."

The relationship with the Saigon regimes has always been a fundamental weakness of American policy, in the judgment of many observers. Officials within the U.S. mission concede that there is less real communication between top Americans and Vietnamese in Saigon now than ever before, except in the last, agonizing days of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime in 1963.

This situation has arisen not because of diverging viewpoints.

Departing Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has been on friendly enough terms with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. He is believed to have gotten at least an oral commitment from Ky and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, both senior military figures, that they would not openly fight each other for the presidency later this year.

But dealings between senior Americans and their Vietnamese counterparts are regarded as leaning to social and protocol affairs. The need for real reforms and changes is not pressed.

One reason is that the United States and Vietnam have nothing much more to discuss at this point. The Vietnamese know what the United States wants.

Relays of American advisers have made clear, for instance, their desire to see the performance of the Vietnamese armed forces improve. Yet this continues to deteriorate.

"As it stands now the Vietnamese do what they like with way toward victory alone, at least militarily, and by pulling the Vietnamese along behind, hopefully build up the government."

How can the United States exert pressures?

One way would be to abolish everything they get, and we could put our finger on units who aren't expending the logistics. Other Americans, watching

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I have heard all the arguments against smoking which have to do with health. Here is something else to consider.

Research shows that non-smoking workers contribute from 3/4 to 1-1/4 hours a day more working time than their smoking co-workers. More if they must run to the rest room to smoke.

Based on $2 an hour, 5 days a week, 20 days a month, every non-smoker should be given an immediate $40 a month raise for the average 20 hours a month extra he puts in while the nicotine addicts search in their purses and pockets for cigarettes, light up, hunt for an ash tray, puff away, gaze, cough, brush the loose tobacco off their clothes and put out the small fires that start in the wastebaskets.

I, for one, would like to see that extra $40 a month added to my next paycheck. — WORKIN' NOT PUFFIN'

Dear Workin': I'm for you, Bub, but don't spend the money yet. You'll have a hard time getting this one through—especially if your boss smokes.

Dear Ann Landers: If you have heard this story once you've heard it a million times, but here it is again: I am still in love with my high school sweetheart.

I married a man my mother thought would be a perfect husband. I admit he is very good to me and he is a wonderful father. In the 10 years we have been married, he has never been unkind. But I realize now I should have married my true love and not listened to my mother. Although I have only seen my ex-sweetheart twice in the last 10 years (he lives in a neighboring town), I know I shall never get over loving him. I am not asking for advice because I will never break up my marriage but I wonder if you have some words of consolation for me?—SAD SAD SAD.

Dear Sad: You don't need consolation, you need to wake up and smell the coffee. The one who got away always looks better—especially if you see him twice in 10 years.

Had you married your old flame, you'd probably be pining now for the man you did marry. My advice is to stop feeling sorry for yourself, Girl. It sounds as if you have a very good marriage there.

Dear Ann Landers: I was intrigued by the letter from the woman who wrote to express concern for what would happen to her children if she and her husband should die in an accident together.

Recently, a woman I know socially (we are not close friends—in fact, I am not particularly fond of her) took me aside at a party and said, "I think you would be flattered to know that my husband and I have decided that if anything happens to us, we have selected you and your husband to take our two sons."

I was so stunned I couldn't speak. Finally I managed to reply, "I will have to discuss this with my husband."

He was not only shocked but annoyed. We have never heard of such nerve. My husband asked me to call the woman and tell her we would not accept the responsibility. I refused on the grounds that I don't want to get involved with her. Tell me,

Recommend MU Center For Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Freedom of Information Center at the University of Missouri has been recommended as a home for the records of the House Government Information Subcommittee.

In the annual report issued today of the Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of News Editors, it was reported that Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the information subcommittee, is looking for a repository for committee records.

Moss also hopes to get a $200,000 foundation grant to defray the cost of collating and indexing the papers for use by researchers and working newsmen.

The ASNE committee reported it has suggested the Center at Columbia, Mo., as the proper home for the Moss committee records.

The records, the ASNE report said, "are rich in testimony before the committee on proposed freedom of information legislation, in correspondence concerning precedent-setting action that unblocked many kinds of government information which had been suppressed and in other background in the unceasing FOI battle."

The ASNE committee also called for greater financial support for the Center.

"The Center needs money: From more and richer sustaining memberships among newspapers; from foundations, and from the wills of publishers who want to do something important for the profession."

"The Center needs a new building and has some optimistic plans in the works."

"The Center needs additional staff, starting with a fulltime lawyer," the report said.

J. Edward Murray, managing editor of the Arizona Republic, Phoenix, chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee, and John Colburn, editor and publisher of the Wichita, Kan., Eagle and Beacon, and chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association committee on federal laws, were reported planning to ask ASNE and ANPA to authorize a joint committee to work with the Center.

Surveyor

on the vehicle's spindly legs indicated, however, that it came to rest gently and did not tilt.

The main problem seemed to be glare from the sun, coming in at a sunrise slant from the east and reflecting from the spacecraft's surfaces into a mirror that enables the upward-pointing camera to photograph the soil beneath it.

Surveyor 3's 65-hour flight across a quarter-million miles ended at 7:04 p.m., EST, Wednesday after a braking rocket slowed its 6,000-mile-per-hour descent. The 10-foot-tall vehicle settled on the surface with a 10- to 12-m.p.h. impact and started its camera about an hour later.

The first pictures were made up of 200 scan lines. There are nearly 600 on home television screens.

Later, 600-line pictures were televised but glare continued to wipe out much detail.

The 200-line pictures were transmitted with power supplied by a battery aboard the craft.

Hester B. Kaiser, who died at the home of her sisters, Mrs. Forrest Lister, 1311 South Ohio, Monday were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at McLaughlin Chapel with the Rev. Richard Leach officiating.

Burial was in Crown Hill Cemetery.

Father Sends Son Official Letter

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — "I am sure your parents are proud of you," said the formal letter from Central Michigan University's registrar.

Nick Lauer, a senior, read on to find that he had the top grade average for his class and had been named valedictorian for graduation ceremonies in June.

"Thanks, Dad," Nick said to the registrar. Among George Lauer's duties as registrar is compilation of grade averages and notifying the top two students that they will be valedictorian and salutatorian. He sends a copy of the letter to their families.

"My mother got a carbon copy just like other parents," Nick said. "At home we had never discussed my chances for being valedictorian and Dad gave me hints until he sent the official letter."

The letter had a post script: "I have known you for a long time, and it could not have happened to a nicer fellow. Thanks, son, for a job well done."

Hearnes

instead of categorical grants with strings attached. "The federal government just has to listen, and I think they will listen," he told interviewer Hugh Downs.

He cited medicaid, highway beautification and junkyard control requirements as examples of programs where the government tells the states they must conform or lose the federal aid they have been getting.

Hearnes said he thought the president and other officials have made "a start in the right direction" in cooperating with states.

He said a three-way partnership between federal, state and local government is required and "we're getting closer to it," partly as a result of criticism by the governors.

In another speech the governor urged industry to "keep Missouri in the center of your thinking."

His speech was prepared for a group of businessmen.

Hearnes said he was talking as a salesman for new industry. In that vein he told how Missouri has grown industrially expanding its educational system, aided community betterment and is expanding its transportation systems in the air and on the ground.

He pointed out Missouri has a diversified labor force and is a low tax state with a corporate income tax of two per cent, second lowest in the nation, and an unemployment insurance tax of 1.4 per cent, compared with the national average of 2.1 per cent.

"Our state is in good financial condition," he said. "... because our constitution forbids us to exceed current income."

"For this reason we operate on a budget that is strict—and we always make certain that we have a reasonable reserve left in state funds."

Hearnes mentioned the space age work of McDonnell Aircraft Co. in St. Louis and the unlimited potential of new mineral discoveries in the Ozarks.

Last year, he reported, 25,000 new jobs were created by new and expanding industries, representing a payroll increase of more than $144 million and a manufacturing investment of $155 million—fourth in the midwest.

'Witnesses' In Assembly On Weekend

Several hundred delegates to Jehovah's Witnesses' three-day assembly in Sedalia are due to arrive on Friday. The meet is to be held in the Recreation Building at Liberty Park, Friday through Sunday.

Most of those attending will come from a number of the Witnesses' congregations in greater Kansas City. There also will be delegates from Oak Grove, Pleasant Hill, Clinton and Warrensburg. A total attendance of upwards of 1,200 is anticipated.

Andrew Laguna, district director for the Witnesses from their world headquarters in New York, is principal speaker. There is no admission charge and no collection will be taken.

Harold G. Matson, presiding minister for Jehovah's Witnesses in Sedalia, will be chairman for this presentation.

S. A. Jensen, circuit supervisor for the congregations being represented, indicated that the Witnesses in Kansas City and the other western Missouri areas attending the Sedalia conference regarded its importance sufficient to cancel all congregational meetings normally held during the time of the Sedalia assembly.

A number of newly ordained ministers is scheduled for water baptism Saturday.

Milestone In Fraternal Relationship

An historic milestone in fraternal relationships will take place this evening when members of the Sedalia Council No. 831, Knights of Columbus, and the members of St. Omer Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar, will hold a joint dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, Broadway and Missouri.

This is the first time such a meeting has ever occurred in this area, and one of the earliest of such events which are beginning to be held in many sections of the country.

Announcement of the meeting was made by Leo J. Coxon, Grand Knight of Sedalia Council No. 831, Knights of Columbus, and Howard J. Gwinn, Eminent Commander of St. Omer Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar.

Dignitaries from the state level of both organizations have been invited and expected to attend will be the State Deputy Homer L. Hote, of the Knights of Columbus and Grand Commander William J. Tobler of the Grand Commandery of Missouri Knights Templar, or they will send greetings by a personal representative.

A brief program has been planned with special music by John Vandekamp and Al Domingue, singers, along with accordion music by Carl Bopp.

The Order of Knights Templar is an organization based on the Order of the Temple at the time of the Crusades, and draws its ritual and principles from the highest ideals of that order. It is open for membership to those Master Masons who profess a belief in the Christian faith and are members of the two bodies of the "York Rite" or "American Rite" of Freemasonry, the Chapter of Royal Arch Masons and the Council of Royal and Select Masters.

The Knights of Columbus is a fraternal benefit organization organized in the late 19th century. It draws membership from men of the Catholic faith and encompasses most of North American countries and island possessions of the United States. The Council consists of the lower degrees and the Assembly the Fourth Degree.

This is a meeting to bring understanding between two organizations that for years have been far apart. Both organizations are seeking the reason why.

'Bogart' Special On ABC Sunday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The late Humphrey Bogart has become the center of a cult, most of whose members are so young they can only have seen his films in their endless television reruns or in rerelives.

Joe Hyams, a former Hollywood newspaperman and author of a book, "Bogart," believes that he understands why Bogart is popular today with fans young enough to be his children.

"Bogart was always cool and loose, the way they'd like to be," he said. "His voice was a rasp and he even had a lisp, but he was tough outside while there was something warm inside. He may be partly father image, but there's also something about him that they can identify with."

Hyams served as production consultant for "Bogart," a documentary about the actor which will be broadcast on ABC next Sunday and found the assignment presented problems unknown to a book author but also revealed facets of his subject that literary research left concealed.

Hyams found himself watching endless hours of old films.

"It was fascinating to watch him develop," he said. "He always had a natural way of taking a woman in his arms, but it became smoother."

Hyams also observed that in their many films together both Bogart and James Cagney invariably wound up repeating almost identical closing lines and even wore clothes they had used in earlier films.

Except for Cary Grant and perhaps a couple of others, Hyams thinks that film stars don't come in Bogart's dimensions today.

The six McLendon radio stations served formal notice on the music industry Wednesday by advertisements in trade journals that they were tired of records with "raunchy" lyrics and tired of complaints from listeners.

Starting May 15, the stations will refuse to consider playing any record submitted with a printed copy of the lyrics.

Gordon B. McLendon, president of the chain, said he was "disturbed at the lyrics and sounds of many records popular with the youth of America. I think these records are morally damaging and I have ordered all our stations to ban this type of recording."

He urged the record industry to police itself, not to leave it up to the broadcasters.

Receives Award For Combat 23 Years Ago

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Army Sgt. Maj. John L. Wright received the Bronze Star Wednesday for "exceptional combat" 23 years ago.

Wright, intelligence sergeant with the 18th Artillery Group (air defense), distinguished himself in North Africa and Sicily during World War II, but said he didn't get around to doing the paperwork necessary to get the award until recently.

Knitting? "It's common in many prisons," Hocker explained. "I wouldn't want to look some of these boys in the face and call them sissies."

Games in the Bull Pen, run by the inmates, ranged from poker to blackjack to craps.

The c r a p s-to-crocheting switch apparently encountered little resistance.

Drug Helps Reduce Number Of Mentally Ill Persons

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Fifteen years after a mind-influencing drug was first administered to a psychiatric patient, the number of Americans confined to mental hospitals has been cut sharply.

Leading psychiatrists agreed that the drugs, commonly called tranquilizers or antidepressants, are responsible. The chemical compounds, they say, have revolutionized treatment of the mentally ill. Their hopes for even more dramatic advances are unlimited.

Dr. Roy Menninger of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka says use of the drugs is "the single most important factor in the reduction of the number of people in state hospitals across the country in general."

Use of the drugs is still in the experimental stage. Psychiatrists don't know why or how they work. Some preparations have produced exceedingly uncomfortable side effects.

Most importantly, the drugs do not cure mental illness. They have no effect on the factors which engender emotional disturbances.

But they do alleviate the symptoms of mental illness, and thus permit literally thousands of persons who once would have spent all their years in close confinement to lead productive lives.

In this country, 19 million people — one of every 10 — suffer from some form of mental or emotional illness. There are more people in hospitals with mental illness at any one time than with all other diseases combined.

But there has been a startling decline in the number of hospitalized patients, despite a tremendous increase in new admissions, and these statistics are cited by Dr. Menninger and other psychiatrists as evidence of the drugs' effectiveness.

A nationally recognized authority on the treatment of mental illness, Dr. Paul Feldman, director of research at Topeka State Hospital, says that in 1953 his institution had 254 new admissions, and an average daily population of 1,437.

Last year, the number of new admissions more than doubled, to 562, but the average daily population was only 833.

More Conclusions that the decreasing number of hospitalized patients is related to drugs have been challenged. Dr. Feldman doesn't argue the point.

"One thing we know is that the decline in (hospital) census and introduction of drugs were coincidental, however," he said in an interview.

The psychiatrist, a white-haired 57, speaks with authority on the use of drugs in psychiatry. He has published more than 100 papers in medical journals, is a charter member of the American College of Psychopharmacology, and lectures to medical groups around the country on psychotropic agents, a catchall term for drugs that work on the mind.

One of the first, and still commonly used, was chlorpromazine, a compound that was introduced as an antihistamine, then used as a treatment for worms, and still later as an anesthetic.

"I've been in psychiatry for 30 years and this even puts to shame the hubbub that came following the shock treatments," says Feldman of chlorpromazine introduction in the 1950s. "We were terribly excited with the shock treatments — but not the way we are with chlorpromazine. This is even more dramatic in the results we are given."

The drugs, incidentally, have all but ended brain surgery and the tortures of electro-shock and insulin coma in the treatment of mental illness.

Psychotherapy remains an extremely popular treatment method.

"But suppose your patient won't cooperate" said Dr. Feldman. "Suppose he just stands in the corner and if you come near him he punches you in the nose and says, 'I'm not going to adjective therapy, I'm not going to the doctor."

"That makes it a little hard to treat him. So you give him one of the phenothiazines (the class name of such drugs as chlorpromazine). He is more facile, less hostile, less resistant and he is more cooperative."

"You have found a chemical way to control symptoms but this doesn't eliminate them other than by masking them. The basis for them are still there. We have to rely on psychological methods — psychotherapy and adjunctive therapy and so forth — for any really basic reorganization of personal problems."

Knowledge of how the drugs work is not much greater than was the knowledge of how shock treatments helped patients improve.

"We knew they got better, but to this day we still don't know why," said Feldman. "Even to a large extent our new drug treatments are empiric — they were accidentally discovered as being useful. In another 50 years, maybe, we'll have a pretty good understanding."

The drugs have not been without problems.

"We are starting to see now, with patients who have been on relatively high doses of phenothiazines for two or three years a rather profound pigmentation of the skin," Feldman said. "The skin becomes a fluorescent, metallic purple in color. They look like purple people."

"One of the things that has already come out, now that we have started to look into it, is that approximately a third of the patients that are on long-term phenothiazine therapy may develop changes in their eyes. It's not associated with any difficulty in seeing, although some very competent people are predicting that perhaps that can eventually lead to cataracts — which would then, of course, be serious."

"There isn't a better intermediate size car sold in the United States than the 1967 Rebel"

says Tom McCahill, automobile expert for Mechanix Illustrated.

Tom McCahill evaluates the automobile industry for Mechanix Illustrated. Recently, he took out an SST hardtop equipped with a 343 cu. in. Typhoon V-8 for an exhaustive series of road tests. How did our Excitement Machine perform?

"In roadability and performance, it would top most of the newer specialty cars. There's absolutely no plowing and little body roll. The whole feel of the car, when going over ruts or across dirt roads, is excellent."

What about comfort? "It's extremely comfortable and relaxing to drive. In straight-line driving the SST is as comfortable as the Jell-O specials."

How about Rebel's new four-link rear suspension?

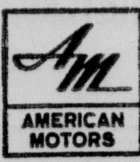

"Of all the new sporty-type cars, as they come from the showroom, Rebel has by far the best and safest suspension of the whole kit and caboodle."

And the looks? "As sharp in appearance as a thousand-dollar bill. And from a cost angle, Rebel's not overpriced."

This is your kind of excitement, created by American Motors. A company that has created an entire line of six-passenger Excitement Machines that give you more excitement for the money.

See your American Motors/Rambler Dealer. He'll convince you the 1967 Rebel is the best intermediate built in the country today. Then do what Tom McCahill did. Take a test-drive.

Check Writing Habits Will Change Despite Objections

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — If your friendly banker has anything to do with it—and he does—a lot of habits will be changed by Sept. 1. Yours, for instance.

Like—
—Borrowing a friend's checkbook, scratching out the name of his bank and scribbling in your own.

—Paying a bill with a counter check. (And getting one in the first place from the merchant.)

—Using a check that's too wide, too long, too thick.

How your banker gets you to shed these time-perfected practices is up to him. By the nature of things his method of persuasion is likely to involve money. Yours.

The reason is those black, doodly little numbers wandering across the bottom of most checks.

Weatherman Toying With Food Bills

NEW YORK (AP) — The weatherman is toying with the family food bill again.

Rains finally have fallen in the wheat belt. Wheat prices have dropped, easing the threat of higher prices for flour and bread this summer.

Rains also have fallen in California, and there the effects haven't been entirely helpful.

They have kept the bees from pollinating fruit trees, slowed the asparagus cutting, damaged the sweet cherries in San Joaquin Valley, washed away tomato seedlings, and—a bit of cheer perhaps for small boys—interrupted the spinach harvest. A freeze caused heavy damage to apricots.

The weatherman also is holding the Florida tomato crop below normal.

As the weather improves, there should be bigger supplies—and lower prices—for fresh fruits and vegetables. The outlook is good for celery, lettuce, snap beans, carrots, sweet corn, green peppers and green onions. Bananas, apples, grapefruit and oranges are plentiful.

In the meat department, ham and beef prices have dropped again. Big supplies of other meats have helped keep beef prices down. There are much bigger supplies of pork, chickens and turkeys than last year.

On Sept. 1 the Federal Reserve Bank will require that those numbers—which identify your bank to their computers—must be on all checks going through the Fed (as it's affectionately known).

The Fed is a bank for bankers. Its member banks borrow money from it, deposit money in it and get accounting services—just like the commercial banks used by the public.

One of the Fed's major functions is to take the check you write, credit the bank that deposited it and deduct the same amount from your bank. When bank number one gets its money, it credits the account of the person you gave the check to. When your bank is charged, it deducts the money from your account.

All this is a process that takes two days at the most, a modern miracle considering that last year the Fed—in its 12 districts—handled six billion checks. The amount of money handled was more than one trillion, 700 billion dollars. Rounded out to workable figures, that is written: $1,770,245,731,000.

Less than half the banks in the country—6,156 of 14,230—are members of the Fed. But its policies filter down to all banks and that's why it's likely your bank will require the little numbers.

"We get a million checks a day," says John T. Boysen, first vice president of the 10th Federal Reserve Bank, which has headquarters in Kansas City.

It used to take "hundreds of people manually sorting checks into piles, each pile representing a bank that then had to pay us for the amounts on the checks. As a result we got many sorting errors and sent checks to the wrong banks."

In the 50s, Stanford Research Institute, spurred by the Fed and the American Bankers Association, came up with magnetic ink that could be read by computers. What the human eye sees as numbers of a sort, the computer recognizes as impulses that direct it to do certain things. For instance, before the first number there is a brief line and a sort of colon. That tells the computer to start reading. Another set tells it to stop.

Fire, Casualty, Life
LATIMER
INSURANCE AGENCY
110 East Fifth Street

Larger banks, seeing the numbers as a way to speed their own operation, encouraged their customers to have account numbers printed on in magnetic ink. It's done automatically at most banks that offer or arrange for personalized checks.

Clearing houses, where checks are physically exchanged at 11:30 each day, also adopted the system.

The Fed and some banks carried the automation even further by having the amount of each check encoded—printed in magnetic numbers—to make that part of the process automatic too.

At the Fed's Kansas City office, computers sort the checks at the rate of 70,000 an hour—at the same time charring and crediting the banks involved. At the end of each day, every check in the house has been processed.

"There is a hard-core residue that we're trying to get to conform," is the polite way Boysen comments about check writers who don't have the magnetic numbers.

"We ran a survey one day in January and found that about 3 per cent of the checks are not encoded," Boysen says. "To us that means 30,000 checks we have to sort physically each day."

The Fed gave banks a year's notice: By Sept. 1, 1967 any item not encoded will be returned—or if the check is over $1,000—delayed until the money for it is deposited. In any case, a delay.

Computers can't read that you scratched out the name of one bank and inserted your own. They spit out counter checks and they won't digest long, wide or thick ones.

Use them and the Fed will get apoplexy. Your banker will get mad. Your checks may be refused. Or it may cost you money.

Ladies Fellowship Meeting

The Ladies Fellowship of the Faith Baptist Church met April 11 at 7:15 p.m. in the church auditorium with Mrs. Fred Brummet, president, presiding. The meeting opened with the group singing "When We All Get to Heaven," preceded with prayer by Mrs. Mary Estes.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Brummet, who used as her topic, "Builders For Christ."

Mrs. James Furham played an organ selection entitled "I Know Whom I Have Believed." A quartet consisting of Mrs. Estes, Mrs. Brummet, Mrs. Holman and Mrs. Rumsey sang "Face to Face."

Letters and prayer requests from the missionaries were read by Mrs. Larry Knowles and prayer was given for the various missionaries.

A tape recording form the Dudley Atteberry's missionaries from Japan was played. Due to the length of the tape, Mrs. Ben Rumsey summarized the messages on the tape and the group then listened to the Japanese songs and a few words from the Atteberry's on the remaining tape.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Oliver Thomas, Mrs. Larry Knowles and Mrs. Oliver Hall.

Musical Program

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The staid marble halls of the Missouri Capitol resounded with song Wednesday afternoon, as a group of 110 young people from Waynesville Senior High School presented a musical program in the rotunda.

The students sang traditional songs, numbers with a modern beat, and others with a patriotic flavor. Both Houses of the Legislature had been invited, but were in session as the music rang through the building.

American Club Members Are A Paradox In Fidel's Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — On the prado near Old Havana is a fading building where a handful of aging Americans sit in leather chairs waiting for time to pass. Their solitude is unchallenged by the tread of young British and Canadian diplomats playing squas two floors overhead — or by the rumble of the Cuban army trucks outside.

The scene is the American Club, a hangover from earlier days and a paradox in modern Cuba. It is a sort of symbol of the two kinds of Americans who live in Communist Cuba today: those who support Prime Minister Fidel Castro and those who don't.

Except for the few club members, almost everyone fits the category of supporters.

Exact figures on the number of native-born Americans in Cuba more than eight years after the Castro revolution are difficult to verify here. The best estimate seems to be 100-130.

Any figures are suspect. Some of the Americans no longer consider themselves U.S. citizens. For others, time and their activities have invalidated their passports and clouded their legal status.

The Swiss Embassy, representing U.S. interests in Cuba since the United States broke diplomatic relations with Castro in 1961, has about 1,000 persons registered as Americans. But, an official says, practically all of these are Cuban-Americans waiting for the resumption of the Mexican airlift to New Orleans.

The U.S. State Department, it is believed here, keeps careful check on the Americans remaining in Cuba. At least 95 per cent of them are "revolutionaries," a Western diplomat estimates.

"These people are here because they want to be," he says. "They believe in the revolution and are working for it."

Some have been in Cuba since shortly after Castro came to power.

An American woman who has been here six years works for a government legal division she says is negotiating old U.S. claims against Cuba. Her husband is economics editor of the Communist party paper Granma.

Another works in the English section of Radio Havana, the government voice that beams propaganda overseas in eight languages.

Perhaps the most publicized case involves Robert F. Williams. He fled to Cuba in 1961 after being indicted in his home town of Monroe, N.C., for kidnapping a white couple during a racial disturbance. Once here, he began broadcasting for Radio Havana and continued until mid-1966. Then he was reported in Peking doing the same thing for the Chinese.

Occasionally U.S. citizens drift into Cuba as interim guests. One of these was Philip S. Foner, a history professor at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania — widely quoted in the Cuban press as saying socialism is the only solution for white and Negro workers in the United States.

One case is mentioned by a diplomat who said an American could enter his country if he produced a valid U.S. passport. But, the diplomat added, in view of the American's record here, it seemed unlikely he could get his passport renewed without answering embarrassing questions in Washington first.

On the other side of the fence are the handful of Americans who hang on although they are looked upon as "gusanos."

"I love Cuba," explains one, a sugar executive for 43 years before the revolution. "It has been my whole life."

Now 74, separated from his family which was in the United States when Castro took over, he says without elaboration, "I would leave tomorrow if I could just get on a plane and go."

His situation is similar to that of six other Americans, surviving members of the American Club.

Founded in 1901, it boasted 1,200 members, including 800 Americans. Its bars and dining rooms buzzed with the conversation of the island's wealthy and important. Today, the membership is reduced to 200, including the seven Americans.

Once a month, the British Club uses the main dining room for a luncheon, but for the most part the three-story structure's card rooms, gym and bars are unused.

The seven Americans have few illusions they will be able to keep the doors open much longer. "We pay all our bills on time," says the vice president, "but I don't know how much longer we can keep doing it."

When the end comes, one of the first things that seems sure to come down is a big portrait of Theodore Roosevelt.

The club bans political talk. Inquiries about how its mem-

Chinese Aliens Feel The Effects

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Communist China, once Indonesia's great friend and ally, has become a symbol of hate here, and the million or so Chinese aliens in this country are feeling the effects.

An officially sponsored anti-Peking line has combined with traditional anti-Chinese sentiments among Indonesia's Moslem people to create an atmosphere of tension for the Chinese.

This situation developed following the 1965 coup d'etat attempt organized by the pro-Peking Indonesian Communist party, PKI. Communist China was accused of having a hand in it.

The coup was smashed by army forces led by Gen. Suharto, now acting president. The collapse of the Red movement triggered a massive anti-Communist campaign throughout Indonesia in which hundreds of thousands were slain. The PKI was destroyed and its remnants were driven underground.

Since then Chinese aliens, most of whom owe their allegiance to Peking, have become virtually equated with Communists.

Stern regulations limit the activities of Chinese and subject them to special taxation. They have been banned from trading, their chief livelihood, in such outlying areas as Sumatra. In Jakarta they have been denied permanent residence.

Boycott of Chinese goods is being fostered and Chinese-owned shops are liable to closure by the military.

Peking has been linked with the distribution here of pamphlets in Chinese characters, urging local Chinese to resist the Suharto government.

Accounts of Peking's tirades against Suharto's "new order," labeling it reactionary and fascist, are carried by the official news agency Antara and reprinted in newspapers.

Reports of Red Guard ex-

bers survive are politely turned aside.

It prides itself on a record of never having been attacked or accused of antigovernment activities, although one of its members was executed for spying and another is in prison for political crimes.

Of the pro-Castro Americans here, only two are known to have tried to enter the club. They were refused.

"They weren't our type of Americans," a member recalls.

FOR SCHOLARSHIPS — Bill Trout, right, president of the Sedalia Sunrise Optimist Club, presents a check to Dan Curtis, speech and debate instructor at Smith-Cotton High School. The money is to be used for scholarships for qualified junior members of the S-C varsity debate squad and will be awarded on a competitive basis. The scholarships will be used for a four-week summer seminar at the University of Denver. (Democrat-Capital photo)

remism, particularly against Chinese Moslems, are used by Moslem groups here to warn against communism.

Diplomatic relations with Peking are close to the snapping point. There are demands from militantly anti-Communist student and Moslem organizations that the last threads be cut.

Foreign Minister Adam Malik has indicated that the ties will continue at least until a settlement has been reached on the question of repatriating Chinese who want to go back to the mainland.

"What do we do with one million Chinese?" Malik has asked.

When those Chinese who want to leave finally go, they are not likely to be allowed to take much with them.

One military official commented recently:

"Long ago the Chinese came to Indonesia emptyhanded and

Hits Two Home Runs

Former Hitting Style Is Playing Off For Aaron Now

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Hank Aaron has a hard time breaking the old home run habit, he'll have no trouble keeping his new friends.

The Atlanta slugger, who led the National League with 44 home runs last year but dipped to a .279 batting mark — lowest in his career — blasted a pair of homers Wednesday night, powering the Braves to a 4-1 victory over Houston.

"I'm going back to my old style of hitting, to get a better batting average," the .316 lifetime hitter said before signing a two-year contract last winter at $100,000 per-season. "I wasn't too concerned about batting for an average last year because I had made up my mind to lead the league in homers."

"There's no better way of making friends when you move into new territory than hitting the ball over the fence," Aaron added, explaining he went for the long ball in 1966 to help boost fan interest during the Braves' first year at Atlanta.

Aaron didn't disappoint the Atlanta backers Wednesday night. He slammed a 405-foot, bases-empty drive over the center field fence in the first inning and hammered a 420-foot solo shot into the left field seats in the fourth.

The 33-year-old outfielder's first two 1967 homers lifted his career total to 444, No. 10 on the all-time list, while sending his early-season batting average up to .321.

The homers also provided the winning margin as the Braves rolled to their fifth straight victory after an opening string of three losses.

St. Louis' streaking Cardinals overpowered San Francisco 7-5 for their sixth victory in six starts and the Los Angeles Dodgers edged Cincinnati 3-2 on Ron Hunt's run-scoring double in the 10th. The Pittsburgh-

Philadelphia game was rained out.

The New York Yankees blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0, Minnesota shaded Baltimore 3-2 and Cleveland downed Kansas City 4-1 in American League action. Rain washed out Washington's scheduled double-header at Boston.

Dave Giusti, Houston's starter, gave up both Aaron homers and was touched for another run in the fourth when Mack Jones doubled, took third on an error and scored on a force-play grounder. A walk, Rico Carty's double and Mike de la Hoz' infield hit gave the Braves an insurance run in the eighth.

Winner Ken Johnson allowed only four hits before giving way to Ramon Hernandez in the seventh. Ed Mathews singled the Astros' run across in the sixth.

Tim McCarver hit a three-run homer and Julian Javier a two-run shot for the Cardinals, who pinned San Francisco ace Juan Marichal with his third loss in three starts.

Ken Henderson's second bases-empty homer of the night knocked out winner Larry Jaster in the eighth. Jesus Alou and Willie McCovey also homered for the Giants, who have lost six in a row.

Ron Hunt broke up the Dodgers-Reds duel with a run-scoring double in the 10th — his fourth hit in five trips. Gene Michael led off the 10th with a double and Hunt, who had scored the first two Los Angeles runs, delivered the winning hit one out later.

Tommy Harper homered for Cincinnati in the sixth and the Reds tied it in the seventh when Tommy Helms singled, stole second and raced home on John Edwards' single.

Warriors To Square With 76ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Having demolished the specter of a shutout, the San Francisco Warriors tonight battle to square accounts with the Philadelphia 76ers in their final National Basketball Association playoff series.

"It was a personal thing for us to fight back," declared 6-foot, 11-inch Nate Thurmond. "Boston took only one game from the 76ers and as a matter of pride we want to do better than the Celtics, perhaps even win the championship, which is possible now."

Thurmond proved the strong tower in the Warriors' 130-124 triumph over the 76ers at the Cow Palace Tuesday night after the Eastern champs had won the first two games in Philadelphia.

Warrior shooting came to life and Coach Bill Sharman hopes his club maintains its collective shooting eye before the capacity throng at the Cow Palace tonight.

Coach Alex Hannum of Philadelphia, on the other hand, admitted defenses to avoid repetition of the 55 points by Rick Barry and 28 by Jim King which rattled the 76ers in the third game.

A day before the game, all reserved seats were sold with only a few grandstand duets remaining to go on sale at noon today. That assured a crowd of 15,000.

Commenting on the victory, Sharman said, "That was the first game in which we shot well. We just weren't hitting in Philadelphia."

The Warriors connected on 45.3 per cent of their shots from the floor while the 76ers hit 43.1 per cent.

Cardinals Keep Record Perfect

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals kept rolling along Wednesday night, posting their sixth consecutive victory in the National League at the expense of the San Francisco Giants, 7-5.

The Kansas City Athletics went down to a 4-1 defeat in the American League against Cleveland. The A's now stand 3-3.

Home runs played a major part in both games. There were nine — five in the Cards-Giants game and three in the A's-Indian contest.

Tim McCarver's 3-run homer in the first inning and Julian Javier's 2-run blow in the fifth powered the Cardinal attack. Ken Henderson, Jesus Alou and Willie McCovey connected for solo homers for the Giants.

At Cleveland, Max Alvis and Duke Sims socked round-trippers for the Indians and Ken Suarez smashed one for the Athletics.

The Cards got 12 hits, with Curt Flood, Roger Maris, Orlando Cepeda, Phil Gagliano and Javier connecting to run their strings through all games played this season.

Juan Marichal, ace right-hander of the Giants, gave up nine hits and five earned runs in the 3 1-3 innings he worked. It was his third loss in three starts as the Giants losing streak went to six games.

Southpaw Larry Jaster got credit for the Card victory but needed relief from Joe Hoerner in the eighth after Henderson homered.

Cleveland's win streak reached three with Sonny Siebert getting credit for the vic-

Yankees On Top Again

Old Combination Is Back In League

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There was an old combination back at work in the American League standings today.

The New York Yankees were in first place again, put there on a shutout by slick Whitey Ford.

It's been 2½ years — if you don't count opening day when nobody else played — since the Yankees had nine teams below them.

Last season, when they finished 10th, the Yanks never made it over the .500 mark and Ford, plagued with a circulatory problem in his left shoulder, managed just two victories.

But he was the oldtime Whitey against the Chicago White Sox Wednesday, allowing just seven singles for a 3-0 victory. It was his 45th career shutout and his first since Aug. 5, 1965, when the victims were, ironically, the White Sox and Wednesday's loser, Tommy John.

When he retired the last man, Ford, attempting a comeback after his second shoulder operation, jumped off the mound in joy. It was like those pictures of pitchers who've just won World Series games. You remember World Series games. Ford used to work in them in the good old days.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, rookie Rod Carew drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single as Minnesota and Dean Chance defeated Baltimore 3-2. Three home runs powered Cleveland to a 4-1 victory over Kansas City. Washington's doubleheader at Boston was rained out.

In the National League, Atlanta ripped Houston 4-1, St. Louis outscored San Francisco 7-5 and Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 3-2 in 10 innings. Pittsburgh was rained out at Philadelphia.

Ford was delighted with his performance. "It's been a long time hasn't it?" he said, grinning.

The ace left-hander, who ran into Boston rookie Bill Rohr's one-hitter in his first start this season, said he was bothered somewhat by Chicago's 49 degree temperature.

"My fingers began to feel the cold after six innings and I couldn't use my breaking stuff. I went mostly to the fast ball and the sinker."

The Yankees picked up a run off John in the second on Charley Smith's single, two walks and a sacrifice fly by John Kennedy. Smith's sacrifice fly and a single by Joe Pepitone drove in two more in the third following an error by Chicago's Tom McCraw.

The Twins knocked off the Orioles with a strong pitching performance by Chance, who allowed just five hits and struck out 10.

Carew, a rookie second baseman, broke the game up with a one-out, bases — loaded single against Stu Miller in the ninth. The hit scored Ted Uhlender, running for Harmon Killebrew, who had opened the inning with a single. Killebrew also hit his first homer of the year earlier in the game.

Max Alvis, Duke Sims and Chuck Hinton all hit home runs for the Indians against Kansas City and Sonny Siebert, with late-inning help from Bob Allen, picked up his first victory.

Ken Suarez, Kansas City's catcher, homered for the A's, threw out three runners trying to steal and picked another off base.

John Herbst, president, presided over the meeting. Herbst announced any person desiring to become a member of the Booster Club is welcome to attend their meetings on the first Friday of each month, the noonday meeting and on the fourth Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Both meetings are held in the Pacific Room of the Pacific Cafe.

Oklahoma Tops Big 8

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer
Oklahoma leads Big Eight baseball in team hitting, team fielding and pitching staff earned run average, but don't be surprised if Oklahoma State's pressure-loving club slips OU into the throne room again this season.

Oklahoma State has scored only six runs more than its opponents in six games, but won five of them—three by one run.
Chet Bryan's club is sixth in hitting at .223, tied for fourth in fielding at .931 and third in pitching staff ERA at 1.96.

Oklahoma's league - leading figures are .304 in hitting .947 in fielding and 1.70 in staff ERA.
Kansas State has balance but is less impressive figures, hitting
.269, fielding just under .947 and pitching 3.92.

Right now it's a three-team
title race with K-State and O-State tied for first with 5-1 won-lost records and Oklahoma a close third at 4-1.

This Friday and Saturday,
Oklahoma plays at Iowa State,
1-5; K-State is at Colorado, 2-4;
Nebraska, 3-3, at Oklahoma
State; and Kansas, 1-4, at Missouri, 2-4 for a quartet of three-game series.

Missouri is second in hitting at .284 but last in fielding at .898 and sixth in ERA at 6.50, ahead of Colorado 7.12 and Iowa State 8.15. Kansas is runner-up in pitching at 1.76 but last in hitting with only .157.

Oklahoma State's run for an other NCAA World Series berth is being paced surprisingly by a trio of sophomore pitchers—Bill
Maxwell with an 0.51 ERA in 17 2-3 league innings; Dick
Schmidt, 0.82 in 11 and Bill
Dobbs.

Maxwell and Schmidt rank 3-4 in the league behind Roger Jackson of Kansas and Keith Winter of Nebraska, both with perfect ERA records.

Other leaders are Ralph
Rickey of Oklahoma 1.00, Randy
Stroup of Kansas 1.03, Larry
Patterson of Oklahoma 1.29,
Larry Burchart of OSU 1.59,
Jerry Hurt of Missouri 1.59 and Bob Churchich of Nebraska 1.76.

Kansas State's Jim Brown and Oklahoma's Gary Harper, both 6-for-11 in five games, are tied for first in hitting at .545, with OU's Tom Maxwell third at .500.

then comes Barry Lubeck of Missouri .458, Jack Woolsey of K-State .450, Bill Griffin of Missouri .449, Ron Rowell of Oklahoma .429, Dan Thompson of OSU .417, Dan Ruth of Colorado and Tim Bolz of Nebraska both
.412 and Ken Meinert of Missouri .409.

Rowell is the runs batted in leader, 10-8 over Lubeck. Ruth leads in homers, 3-2 over Nebraska's Bob Churchich. Missouri's Ray Thorpe is the stolen base leader, 4-3 over Woolsey.

Find's Pot Of Gold,
Gets To Keep It

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — A Muskegon boy found a pot of gold by the banks of the Muskegon River — and got to keep it.

Danny Shunta, 13, was put-tering around by the river on March 27, 1966, looking for interesting rocks when he found a glass jar stuffed with $2,990 worth of greenbacks.

Danny took the money home to his father, Rudolph, who turned the hoard over to Muskegon police.

Now police have returned the money to Danny.

Under Michigan law, if no one claims lost articles within a year, the finder gets to keep them, provided a reasonable effort has been made to locate the owner.

Danny, an eighth grader said he plans to use the money to finance a college education.

CHICAGO—A Richard Speck painting based on Walt Disney's "Bambi," done in a cell in the Peoria courthouse during Speck's trial for his life. Speck, 26, convicted murderer of eight student nurses, began painting on advice of a Cook County jail psychiatrist. Speck puts a freehand sketch on canvas with charcoal and fills it in with oil paint. He gives them away. A psychologist who examined the painting said he was amazed at the cheerful and relaxed picture and found no evidence of tension or anxiety expressed in the painting. (UPI)

Business News

Rival Manufacturing Company, manufacturer of electric and non-electric housewares, reports record sales and earnings for the first quarter ended March 31, 1967. Sales were $4,752,937, up 5 per cent over 4,516-537 for the comparable quarter of 1966. Net income for the quarter of 411,522 represented an increase of 9 per cent over $378,011 earned in the first quarter of 1966.

Assuming full conversion of the company's 6 per cent convert note, per share earnings on 584,016 shares which would then be outstanding, would be 73 cents for the quarter ended

March 31, 1967 compared with 68 cents for the similar period of 1966. Indications are that the first half of this year will show a continuation of this trend and, given a reasonably stable economy, the company looks for a healthy showing for the year as a whole.

QUICK UNLOADING of military supplies for isolated troops may be possible with this new technique. With an Air Force C-130 skimming just 10 feet above the ground, parachutes pull a 50,000-pound load from its cargo compartment in a test run near El Centro, Calif. The advantage over parachute "drops" is the pin-point accuracy that may be achieved. The load skidded to a stop after 700 feet.

Striped College PTA Holds Meet

The Striped College PTA met April 7, for the final meeting of the year.

A skit was presented in the form of a mock trial of teenagers from modern day back through past generations. Mrs. Harry Hotchkiss acted as judge and ruled the teenagers of today as not guilty.

Mrs. Charles Stilfield presented devotions.

A letter was read concerning a bill which is in the Missouri Senate concerning publishing names of juveniles on their second offense, and urging members of PTA to write their legislators to let their views be known.

A report was given on the purchasing of playground equipment. The unit also decided to buy folding tables and coffee cups for use at the school functions.

The teachers tea will be April 28.

The last day of school picnic will be held Wednesday evening, May 24.

The following officers were installed by Mrs. Richard Kasak for the coming year: Bill Finley, president; Mrs. Lee Roush, first vice-president; Mrs. Darrell Van Beal, second vice-president; Mrs. Harold Scotten, secretary and Mrs. Garlan Burton, treasurer.

Annoyance Is Life-Saver And Science Has Proof

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is a reaction to irritation. If you can't be annoyed, you're dead. This is a scientific fact.

To be alive you have to have a capacity for anger. But what's to be mad about?

Well, if everything is going too well for you, here is a list of things to remember to gripe about the next time you feel it necessary, for sanity's sake, to be indignant:

The smugness of cats.
The indifference of goldfish.
The ingratitude of children.
The things you get back when you send away box tops.
The sour smell of a relighted cigar.

The flavor of anything that isn't caloric.

Other people's morals.
Other people's lack of principle.

The malady known as facing Monday.

The fewness of Fridays in the average week.

The size of the paycheck.
Having one more chin than is necessary.

Waiting for a girl you're taking to dinner to make up her mind to show her utter sophistication by ordering the most expensive dish on the menu.

Shaking hands with people who have taken two lessons in karate and can't forget it.

Listening to fond parents read aloud the clever letters they have received from their off-springs at summer camp.

Listening to braggarts who have gone on the wagon.

Listening to the remorse of braggarts who have fallen off the wagon.

Getting an ulcer from top management and trying to pass it on to somebody else.

Figuring out how rich you'd be if you'd only been smart enough to buy the right stock 20 years ago.

Eating anything that has been cooked in a back yard or had to be thawed before it was put on the stove.

Having to put on your bifocals to see the colors in a rainbow.

Looking at an unhandsome stranger in a mirror and discovering to your dismay he is you.

Yep when you get right down to it, anybody who can't find something to feel disgruntled about doesn't know what real living is.

But cheer up—it could be worse. Wait and see.

Screen Children For Some Defects

A total of 429 Pettis County children were screened recently for vision, speech and hearing defects, and 284 of them were enrolled in a first grade correctional class.

Since Pettis County does not have a Health Nurse, school nurses undertook the job of screening the children. Two speech therapists, Mrs. Suzanne Garlich and Mrs. Patricia Shepard gave articulation tests to detect speech abnormalities. Children who will be six years old before Sept. 15, 1967, were enrolled in a first grade class. Assisting in the registration proceedings was Mrs. Beverly Zimmerschied, secretary and assistant to the nurses.

The program was endorsed by Bothwell Hospital's medical staff. Results of the program indicated that 18 children with possible vision defects were found; seven with defects of hearing, 86 with speech defects and 28 with severe articulatory speech problems.

Ask, How Do They Know?

No matter how ridiculous a thing is, if you repeat it often enough — and loudly enough — people have a tendency to believe it.

Nothing strange about that — it's axiomatic, understandable, yet its implications are ignored almost daily by everyone of us.

What strange things we hear! Do we hesitate long enough to analyze the remarks as truthful or as just so much hot air from a hot head?

No matter how ridiculous a thing is, if you repeat it often enough—and loudly enough — people begin to believe it.

Remember Emile Coue? "Every day and in every way, I am becoming better and better." Thought repetition as a curative agent? Yes, that is what it is.

Admittedly, all of us are more or less gullible and inclined to listen to those who have an axe to grind, a self-fish purpose to accomplish; or who just do some plain grandstanding to attract attention to themselves.

We may not sense it, but the technique of repetition is a weapon of political parties, of community factional groups, of lowly individuals who delight in scandal-mongering. And let us not forget those persons who are playfully mischievous and who compulsively distort the truth.

The theme so far is one of generalization, but bringing it home to Sedalia we find that the method of fanciful story repetitions is frequently used here even though sometimes it sounds so purposeless.

Do you know an effective method of discouraging or disconcerting an individual who uses the repetitive idea for malicious purposes or just plain devilment? Merely use the three letter word "Why do you say that?" or the four word query, "How do you know?"

Try it the next time you listen to a "fact-telling" Sedalia soap box orator.

Hear him through. Ask him "Why do you say that?" or "How do you know?"

Then watch him stutter.

"Relax, Honey, I'll Dream Up Something!"

The World Today

Adenauer Was a Man of Many Talents

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Konrad Adenauer was a combination cement-mixer, architect, and teacher for the new West Germany. Even at the age of 87 he didn't want to retire. But he was forced to.

He was too iron-willed, some would say too bull-headed, to be universally loved. It wasn't that his country didn't appreciate what he had done. It just thought it was time he left.

The same thing had happened to one of his great contemporaries, Sir Winston Churchill, some years before in Britain. But at that time Churchill was physically deteriorating. Adenauer didn't seem to be. He had just outlived his time.

The West Germany he took over in 1949 as chancellor, at age 73, was still pretty much a rubble from the war. He held the job 14 years and in that time guided his country into a miracle of prosperity and a new way of life.

He had to lay the foundations for the new West Germany and build it by design into a new European power. He allied it with the West, making it one of the pillars of the Allies.

But perhaps his greatest contribution was in steering the West German people in a democratic direction after their long history of authoritarianism. If West Germany stays on that road, he will be one of the great figures of its history.

If not, he will simply have been a stopgap leader who happened to appear during an interval between dictatorships.

So, if the obituaries about him seem a little guarded, there is good reason: Since the future of West Germany is uncertain it is too soon to say whether what Adenauer did was all for nothing or was a glittering achievement.

He preached democracy but at times seemed so authoritarian himself in his impa-tiency with opposition that, while he may have been revered and trusted, he was not particularly popular.

West Germany probably needed an iron-willed man at the time Adenauer took over. Then it was surrounded and suspected by its wartime enemies. It might have melted into chaos under a weaker man.

Yet, there were odd twists in his career which almost made his ascendancy look accidental.

He had been mayor of Cologne from 1917 until 1933, when Hitler threw him out for ordering Nazi posters torn down. He was in eclipse during the war. After it he became mayor again. Then the British threw him out.

This enabled him to devote all his energies to becoming chancellor. After the war he had helped create the Christian Democratic Union and became its leader. It was a kind of mass party, drawing support from all classes.

When his CDU won a narrow plurality in the 1949 election he formed a center-right coalition in the first Bonn Parliament. Then came the big test of his big ambition and he didn't win by much.

His election as chancellor of the new government in 1949 was by one vote in the 402-seat Parliament.

Five days after his election he laid down a view and a policy which he followed for the rest of his time in office.

He said there could be no peace in Europe until Germany was reunited (a hope that hasn't been realized yet although he persisted in it), that there must be an end to French-German hostility, that West Germany "belongs to Western Europe," and he linked West Germany's fate with that of the United States.

For several years before he stepped down in 1963, against his will, there had been growing dissension about his leadership within his party. Finally, his party dictated his departure.

He lived 74 years after that and was 91 when he died Wednesday.

The double of an artificial bid to ask for the lead of the suit is fine when you use it as you should. Here is a hand from a match between England and Italy in which this bid should have produced a big swing for England.

The bidding in the box shows one of the artificial Italian systems at its fanciest. As a partial explanation of the bidding, North's two hearts guaranteed four hearts and South's two spades bid was a game force and implied better spades than hearts. I don't know exactly what North's four club bid was all about — probably some sort of mild slam try in case South had a really good hand. It did give the British East a chance to double to ask for a club lead. This wasn't a silly double. It was a really constructive bid.

Unfortunately for England, West looked at his own three clubs to the jack and four diamonds to the king-queen and decided to ignore his partner's request. West opened the king of diamonds and declarer had time to park his losing club on a diamond and make his vulnerable game.

The British North also opened one club. South made the normal one spade response, North tried one no-trump, South two hearts and North four hearts.

The Italian West had no club double to guide him but came up with the lead of the deuce of diamonds. The nine was played from dummy. East put up the ten and was delightfully surprised when it held. Then East shifted to the king of clubs and the British declarer did not make his game.

Thus, instead of a big gain, England wound up with a big loss.

Tiny Town Is Battleground For Civil Rights Fighting

By JOHN K. IGLEHART
WESTON, Ill. (AP) — Tiny Weston, put on the map last year when it was selected as the site for a giant atom smasher, has become a battleground for civil rights advocates.

This is how things stand more than three months after the hamlet, 35 miles west of Chicago, was selected by the Atomic Energy Commission for the $375-million nuclear reactor.

The facility, to have the power of 200 billion electron volts, is expected to bring 2,000 technicians and scientists into the village.

A village with some 400 residents, none Negro, Weston is surrounded by cornfields. Many of its prefabricated homes have been vacated by people who failed to make their mortgage payments.

Whatever its description, Sydney Finley of Chicago, Midwest director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, believes Weston and its environs discriminate against Negroes.

"The facts speak for themselves," Finley said in an interview. "Negroes are being discriminated against in the western suburbs" of Chicago.

Finley has been impressing his opinion on state legislators in hopes that they will push for an open-occupancy law rather than face the possibility of losing the $375 million atom smasher.

"Yes, we're using the leverage that the Weston situation presents to get a state open-housing law," said Finley. "This is operating within the American framework. After all, this is our tax money, too."

AEC officials say it will be at least eight years before the smasher is in operation. The agency's appropriation for next year, including whatever money will be allocated for Weston, is still before Congress.

Very little housing of any kind is available in Weston and most people drawn to the federal project, either to work on its construction or after its completion, would probably have to live in surrounding towns.

Small communities like Aurora, Batavia, Geneva, St. Charles, West Chicago, Wheaton and Naperville are within easy driving range — 10 to 20 miles — of Weston. But these places have their problems too, Finley says.

"We contend there is wholesale collusion between the public officials and the real estate industry in Du Page and Kane counties to keep Negroes out," he said. "There are 381,000 residents of Du Page county and less than 600 of them are Negroes."

Soon after the selection of Weston as site of the atom smasher, a facility sought by 46 states, the village passed an open-housing ordinance. The ordinance was passed unanimously.

Arthur Theriault, village president, said the ordinance solved the problem as far as he was concerned. "We've done what we felt was necessary. There should be no questions now."

Many state legislators apparently share Theriault's opinion that if a local problem exists for Negroes seeking housing a local solution should be applied.

"In those areas where conditions are more stressful the communities can adopt an ordinance," said Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, Republican majority leader.

With Arrington, who holds immense power in the Illinois legislature, expressing this view the chances of passing an open-occupancy law appears dim.

Rep. William Pollack of Chicago, GOP majority leader in the House, said:

"I don't think a bill will pass. I'm still opposed to the idea. The government shouldn't take away one of the few freedoms the people still have."

Professional Economists Sought Out By More States

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — More and more state governments are seeking the aid of professional economists to battle the eternal problem of restricted revenue and growing responsibility.

These professionals advise governors, help coordinate policies with the federal government and its 200 grant-in-aid programs, seek new tax sources. Above all, however, they seek to establish a realistic economic policy.

Some states have even set up councils of economic advisers patterned on the federal model, which was established as an agency of the federal government 21 years ago and which is now headed by Gardner Ackley.

This is by no means a sudden infatuation with the economist. It is a practical relationship in the hopes that the economist can make do where others have failed. There is enough evidence, however, to indicate that most states will have such groups in the near future.

One of the most recent to join the list was New Jersey, but groups exist also in Massachusetts, West Virginia and Illinois, and in varying degrees in several other states.

Most, however, have no budgets, which shows where the economy begins.

For years the work of these groups was the hit-or-miss chore of budget commissions, informal conferences, revenue departments, development agencies and state university research teams.

Councils or their equivalent, however, are separate agencies usually staffed by professionals. Ideally they are backed by law, have their own budgets, permanent offices and staff and report directly to the governor.

Their purpose is to define problems and plan their elimination. To do this they confer regularly with other agencies and submit reports through the year. Their analyses are aimed at establishing policy. They do no propaganda or promotional work.

This need for professional advice is underscored by the growing state problem of inadequate revenue and growing expenditures. Many states also feel their taxing rights have been preempted by Washington. Warren Hearnes, Missouri governor, told a business meeting this week that because of this problem "these United States today face the greatest strain upon its federal system since the civil war."

Meanwhile, the federal government attempts to return $15 billion a year in income tax revenues to the states through more programs than most state officials can name. Goals aren't always clear, and many states pay out far more in federal taxes than they receive in grants.

The pattern for these councils goes back to the employment act of 1946, which established a Council of Economic Advisers, reporting to the President, with the goal of analyzing and promoting maximum employment, production, purchasing power.

Since then the role of the economist in both public and private policy has grown, although the states were not quick to pick up the idea.

Big Meals For Birds

If anyone tells you he eats like a bird, don't invite him to lunch. He'd be an expensive guest.

Bird lovers are well aware that their little feathered friends have voracious appetites.

Even the tiniest birds seem to eat like horses. If a human being ate proportionately to a bluebird, for instance, he would consume about nine loaves of bread, five pounds of hamburger and almost a quart of ice cream a day, to go no further — which he probably wouldn't.

One hundred pounds of bird seed (that's the way most bird feeders buy it) may sound to the uninitiated like a lot of bird seed. But not to birds.

But this is not to knock the birds. For the time and money invested in their feeding, they provide one of the most colorful, fascinating and continuing shows on earth.

Admittance to the show is simple. Just offer the performers a lit-oops—a generous amount of food.

Your beneficence may keep the birds from starving. And you'll feel less guilty

Johnson Triumph At Latin Meeting

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Pan American Summit conference ended up a much greater triumph for Lyndon Johnson than appeared in the press. This was because most of the real work was done behind closed doors with newspapermen not present.

From the byplay that took place in executive session, however, it was quite clear that LBJ pulled off the most notable diplomatic victory of his career. Here is the inside story of what happened:

At first the Latin American presidents were suspicious and wary. When Johnson first walked into the conference room there was something just a bit intimidating about this huge hulk of a man. He was far bigger than anyone else and represented the biggest nation.

When it came his turn to speak on the first day, however, Johnson said that he would rather wait until everyone else had spoken. He had come to listen.

When it came the turn of Ecuadorian President Otto Arosemena Gomez, he also passed. But at about ten o'clock on the second day, Arosemena did speak, and launched a vicious, bitter attack on the United States for pouring money into Vietnam while neglecting our neighbors.

Johnson spoke at about noon that day, unfolding an outline of cooperative help for Latin America provided it helped itself. His delivery lacked eloquence and the speech lasted only 19 minutes, compared with 40 to 50 minutes for some of the smaller nations.

Another Ecuadorian Blast

That afternoon, Thursday, the Presidents met in closed session, and President Arosemena of Ecuador delivered another slashing attack, this time against not only Johnson but the other presidents for not agreeing with him.

After he had finished, Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz replied:

"I resent being called irresponsible," he said. "I resent the charge that I do not represent the views of my people. I know what the views of my people are. Latin America has grown up. It is able to help itself. It is time for the larger nations to help the smaller nations."

The Ecuadorian quickly apologized, saying that he didn't mean to call the President of Mexico irresponsible. Diaz Ordaz accepted the apology.

Following this, the Costa Rican, the Colombian, the Peruvian and the Chilean presidents all defended the United States, refuting the Ecuadorian. President Eduardo Frei Montalva of Chile was the most eloquent.

"I regret that the word 'dollar' has even been mentioned here," he said. "This meeting will have been a success if for no other reason because we have come together to make important political decisions together. We have come to know each other. In Europe they meet together all the time. We do not. I now look forward to picking up the telephone and calling you personally—if my Senate will let me."

He referred to the Chilean Senate's refusal to let him visit the United States earlier this year.

One by one, the 18 other presidents rose to urge the Ecuadorian to reconsider his blast against the United States. President Arosemena, obviously affected, consulted with President Oscar Gestido of Uruguay, the host, to ask whether he could sign the final conference decree "with reservations."

The President of Uruguay advised that he should sign unqualifiedly or not at all. Arosemena's problem was to sign without losing face at home.

That night, Arosemena conferred with LBJ. It was part of a series of private talks Johnson had with each president. In talking to Arosemena, Johnson was as calm as he is with Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., just after Wayne has delivered one of his most biting attacks on the war in Vietnam.

LBJ's Latin Record

Johnson showed Arosemena — as he showed other presidents — that he had increased U. S. aid to Latin America under the alliance for progress 35 per cent compared with the same period under Kennedy. During Kennedy's three years, aid totaled $3.7 billion. During the first three Johnson years, it totaled $4.9 billion.

Johnson also told the President of Ecuador how when President Eisenhower asked for $500 million in aid for Latin America, Johnson, as Democratic leader, had pushed through the authorization in only 13 days. In contrast, Sen. Fulbright had refused to let the Senate O.K. any advance Latin American foreign aid authorization.

When the presidents met to sign their final decree summarizing their work and establishing a common market, President Arosemena made a very temperate speech.

"This man—" he said, referring to Johnson, "I did not know who he was. I did not know he was interested in education, that he was interested in lifting up the standards of the people, or in better housing and social reform. I thought he was an imperialist, a wheeler-dealer, that he was out to destroy the alliance for progress. Instead I have found him to be a warm and friendly person."

It was a great triumph for Lyndon Johnson in a field in which he is comparatively new.

Will Run Festival In Retrospect

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Following a practice begun last year with Robert Wise, the Directors Guild of America is now running a retrospective festival of the films of the latest winner of its annual award, Fred Zinnemann.

Since the Guild's award has always coincided with the Oscar for best direction, the custom works out nicely. And seldom has a victory been so popular, Zinnemann being more or less a director's director.

The selections for the festival demonstrate the versatility of the Vienna-born director.

First comes "The Search" (1948) which would have been important if only for introducing Montgomery Clift to the screen. But it was more than that — a poetic study of the displacement of war, and perhaps the first important postwar film made by Americans in Europe.

Another vital introduction in 1950 — Marlon Brando in "The Men." In 1952, "High Noon," which raised the Western to its highest art and established Gary Cooper as a film immortal. "The Member of the Wedding" 1952, a financial flop but cherished by some critics.

"From Here to Eternity" 1953, a modern classic which gave Zinnemann his first Oscar. "The Nun's Story" 1958, his sole venture into religion and a rare spiritual experience. "The Sundowners" 1960, in which Robert Mitchum proved that he can be a fine actor. "A Man for All Seasons," Zinnemanns dip into the costume picture while avoiding the deadliness of costume pictures.

Zinnemann has directed only 16 features, starting with "The Kid Glove Killer" in 1942 after he graduated from the MGM shorts department. Others included a good wartime film, "The Seventh Cross"; the over-produced "Oklahoma!"; a fine contemporary drama, "A Hatful of Rain"; and his 1963 mistake, "Behold a Pale Horse."

A wide variety of work. But all his films have a common ingredient: humanity. Very often the story concerns a man pursuing his own conscience against big odds — Pruitt in "Eternity" taking on the whole U.S. Army. Gary Cooper trying to marshal public opinion against invading outlaws, Sir Thomas More defying the marital whims of Henry VIII.

KEEP YOUR PILOT LIGHT BURNING THIS SUMMER

It's good for your furnace... the slight heat from the pilot light evaporates moisture and prevents rusting within the furnace.

You may need the heat... on cold and damp Summer days, heat is instantly available.

No delay next fall... keep your pilot light on to have heat ready for the first cool fall day.

For a nicer basement... the draft up the chimney from the pilot warmth keeps your basement drier... less musty.
